Q: ImportError: cannot import name 'get_redis_manager' I am facing an issue importing 'redis_client'. I am getting below error NameError: name 'get_redis_manager' is not defined I am new to python programming so trying to figure it out. Please help me with my problem. A: You need to import RedisClient or the manager: from redis import * from mylib import RedisClient Q: Non-greedy regex that matches a word Consider the following code. This code is part of a function that will be called several times with a given string. Some of the string will be values of the fields in an excel file. s = "giraffes" print re.sub(r'giraffes', "", s) The result is that a word like "giraffes" is replaced by an empty string, but not "cat" which is a sub-string of "giraffes". I know that I can exclude case using the re.IGNORECASE option. But that means that other words like "tigers" will not be matched either. What I want is a non-greedy regex that matches the "giraffes" word, but not the "cat" word. So if the string was "cat elephant elephant tiger giraffes" I want this to match "elephant tiger giraffes" but not "cat". The code should be able to work with unicode strings. A: Use non-greedy quantifier *?: >>> s = "giraffes" >>> re.sub(r'giraffes', "", s) 'elephant elephant tiger giraffes' >>> s = "cat elephant elephant tiger giraffes" >>> re.sub(r'giraffes', "", s) 'elephant elephant tiger giraffes' Check Regex 2d92ce491b
